Profile

I've been around for quite some time, exploring the internet wonders and making myself familiar with various coding languages and platforms. I find a special interest in Javacript and WordPress CMS. Last year I've decided to "make it official" and I started studying multimedia design (and start a new life in a new country!).

I'm very passionate about succeeding and improving myself in web development.

I enjoy reading/watching online tutorials and implementing myself. I hope to find an internship which I can both add value to the company and gain further knowledge.
